

VOLUNTEER RESCUERS — A number of passersby and a wrecker were required Friday afternoon to free William A. Sams Sr., 48, of Fairborn, from his pickup truck in Camp Run Creek. Sams drove off the right side of the road into the creek with such force that he was wedged between the

Campaign gift tied to milk price hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The staff of the Senate Watergate Committee says President Nixon's order to raise federal milk price supports in 1971 may have cost consumers and taxpayers more than $300 million.

"The President's decision was apparently worth anywhere from $300 million to $700 million in extra income to dairy farmers," the committee staff said in a draft report to committee members.

"The cost was shared by the government and American consumers," the committee said.

It said the extra cost came both in taxpayer outlays in government milk purchases and in increased prices to consumers as the decision pushed up retail milk prices.

The 359-page draft report, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press, also said Nixon's decision appeared to be directly linked to campaign contributions by the dairy farmer lobby. The report also charged that serious deficiencies exist in Nixon's argument that congressional pressure forced him to raise prices.

It said the largest of the dairy cooperatives, Associated Milk Producers Inc., linked campaign donations and requests for government favors even as early as its first, secret, $100,000 cash gift to Nixon in 1969, according to testimony by former Nixon fund-raiser Herbert L. Kalmbach.

The Watergate Committee report said the White House overstated the strength of congressional support for a price increase.

The White House conceded that President Nixon was aware that dairy men promised to donate $200 million to his campaign when he raised prices, but it denies this promise influenced him.

In addition, the White House argued that the retail price of milk rose less than the general rate of inflation after Nixon's price increase. But the committee said the cost of milk to consumers actually would have declined had Nixon not increased the support level.

The committee staff said the price increase ordered by Nixon actually was about one cent per 100 pounds more than would have been granted by those members of Congress who supported bills to boost prices. The report also said a congressional price increase would have been less helpful to the dairy men because it would have come later than Nixon's.

The staff report was written principally by Democratic staff members David Dorsen and Alan Weitz. A second report dealing with apparently illegal political donations by dairy men to Democratic presidential candidates, including Rep. Wilbur D. Mills and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, is being prepared by Republican staff members and should be circulated to the committee soon.

High court to hear argument over tapes

Executive-Judicial confrontation

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has agreed to make an early decision on whether President Nixon may withhold White House evidence sought in the trials of his former top assistants.

The high court scheduled a July 8 hearing on the case, which centers on arguments over the doctrine of executive privilege.

Simply put, the issue is whether Nixon may continue to claim the right to keep secret communications he had with men who were once his closest associates, but who are now charged with crimes.

Leon Jaworski, the special Watergate prosecutor, says his need for tapes and documents in the upcoming Watergate cover-up trial transcends the President's executive privilege.

Meanwhile, on Capitol Hill, Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. of the House Judiciary Committee ruled out of order a move to call witnesses to testify about the alleged payment of $75,000 in hush money to Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr.

Rodino said the impeachment inquiry rules prohibit consideration of calling witnesses until completion of the initial presentation of evidence.

Rodino also turned back without a vote suggestions to release all or part of the evidence the committee has heard so far since the committee has met in closed-door sessions. But he directed the staff to begin compiling the material for possible release later.

The New Jersey Democrat also indicated that few of the committee's hearings would be open to the public. He said it was likely that sessions in which evidence is presented will be closed but that committee debates on consideration of evidence already presented will be open.

In the case that the Supreme Court agreed to hear, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica has ordered Nixon to turn over tapes and documents relating to 64 conversations Nixon had with his aides in the year following the original June 17, 1972, Watergate break-in.

In persuading the Supreme Court to take the case, Jaworski is skipping over the U.S. Court of Appeals. Jaworski had argued that without quick action on the issue of subpoenas sent to the White House, the trial of seven men charged in the Watergate cover-up would be unfairly delayed. It is set to begin Sept. 9.

Among those charged with obstruction of justice in the case are former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, and former White House aides to Nixon, H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

In another Watergate case Friday, Jaworski found himself an ally of the White House.

Ehrlichman and another ex-White House assistant Charles W. Colson are seeking notes and records they left behind in the White House.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell backed Colson and Ehrlichman, but Jaworski said a compromise offered by Nixon's lawyer, James D. St. Clair, "seems adequate at this time."

Jaworski suggested Gesell kill subpoenas delivered to the President.

Ehrlichman, Colson and three others are accused of conspiring to violate the civil rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. The charges involve a break-in at Fielding's Beverly Hills, Calif., office designed to obtain material on Ellsberg, who leaked the Pentagon papers to news media.

Gesell has agreed that the defendants, their attorneys and the special prosecutor should have access to the personal papers of the men.

Nixon softened his previous position Thursday, by declaring a willingness to allow Colson's and Ehrlichman's attorneys to review potential evidence.

U.S. food prices show May jump

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Consumers encouraged by recent price declines found during May that relief was shortlived. An Associated Press marketbasket survey showed the family grocery bill went up again last month.

The AP checked the prices of 15 food and nonfood items in 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked at the start of each succeeding month. The figures in the latest survey reflected the April 30 end of price controls and the continuing spiral in commodities prices on the world market.

The latest AP check showed that during May the marketbasket total went up in eight cities, rising an average of 4 per cent, and declined in five. It was the reverse of the situation in April when the bill went down in eight cities and up in five. During March, the marketbasket total went down in nine cities.

The bill at the end of May was higher than on March 1, 1973, in every city. Increases averaged 15 per cent and ranged from 5 per cent in Seattle to 23 per cent in Boston.

Eggs were about the only real bargain around. In many cities, the current price was lower than the March 1, 1973, level. The decline has been a steady one, caused by increased supplies of eggs. The average price of a dozen, medium white eggs in the latest survey was 54 cents, down 11 per cent from the figure one month ago and down 13 per cent from the cost on March 1, 1973.

In a less encouraging vein, however, detergent, which remained fairly steady in earlier months, shot up in nine cities during May, rising an average of 8 per cent.

Sugar which started rising last year and has climbed ever since went up again in 10 cities during May and stayed unchanged in three. The average price was $1.38, up 12 per cent from the $1.23 figure at the end of April and up 89 per cent the 73-cent figure on March 1, 1973.

The cities in the AP survey were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

The items on the checklist were: chopped chuck, pork chops, paper towels, frozen orange juice, coffee, butter, eggs, peanut butter, detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

Lottery ticket applications set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The deputy executive director of the Ohio Lottery Commission has announced that applications for licenses to sell lottery tickets now are available.

Jim Dickerson said the applications can be obtained at any state liquor store or state-authorized package store. He said eligible applicants include persons engaged in a "viable retail business" or non-profit groups and organizations.

Teen gunmen free hostages

RANCHO CORDOVA, Calif. (AP) — Two teen-aged gunmen walked calmly out of a Sacramento area bank and surrendered after holding 25 hostages, some for more than seven hours.

They left behind 17 uninjured captives and $1 million in ransom, the money stacked neatly in six-inch high bundles along one wall of the bank.

The drama began shortly before noon Friday and ended after bank officials collected the massive ransom and dropped it through the bank's night collection chute in 91 brown paper bags.

At different times during the ordeal,

the gunmen forced two women hostages into the bank vault and taped a shotgun to their necks, said Bill Miller of the Sacramento County sheriff's office.

He identified the youths as Michael Madigan, 19, and Brian Young, 18, both of Rancho Cordova. Both were booked initially for investigation of armed robbery.

Authorities said a third youth, who was not identified, was taken into custody and was being questioned as a possible participant in the planning of the holdup.

Miller said the teen-age bandits burst

into a shopping center bank and herded 24 customers and employees into a corner.

About 100 policemen circled the bank and cordoned off surrounding streets and parking lots.

The youths demanded the $1 million ransom and an assurance of free passage out of town in exchange for their prisoners.

The youths agreed to release eight of the hostages in exchange for a sheriff's corporal.

Officer Robert Ruh stripped to the waist, walked into the bank and over the next five hours talked the youths into surrendering.

"After I talked to both of them I figured it was just a matter of time," he said. "I used every means I could to appeal to their logic."

In a televised interview during the ordeal, both gunmen said they desperately needed the money.

"I can't get a job. I can't do nothing. I have no money. I've gone hungry. My dad's been sick. My old man almost died," Madigan said.

"I'm going to blow my brains out. I wouldn't be doing this except I just need the money. I can't stand living like I am."

Young said he participated in the robbery because of personal problems — "There was no food, I didn't have a job, I have no transportation."

"I was crazy to do this and I regret doing it in a sense," Madigan said. "But as long as I did it, I got what I want. I got to talk to people how this establishment gets stuff out of you."

The two youths lived next door to each other. Neighbors said both families were financially hard-pressed and that Madigan's father was an invalid.

Mideast war prisoners traded

By The Associated Press
Joyous crowds in Damascus and Tel Aviv greeted the first returning prisoners of the October war today as Israel and Syria began the exchange of wounded POWs promised in their disengagement pact.

Red Cross medical planes left the two cities minutes apart this morning carrying 38 repatriated prisoners, some legless or in casts.

An hour later, 12 wounded Israeli soldiers stepped off the chartered Fokker Friendship plane at Ben-Gurion airport near Tel Aviv to kisses, tears and flowers from mini-skirted women soldiers.

At about the same time 25 Syrians and one Moroccan arrived to a wildly emotional welcome in Damascus. Red-bellied military police forced a mob of hundreds from the plane to enable the POWs to disembark.

Women wailed and men cheered in Damascus as the plane taxied to a halt. But a hush fell over the mob as the first wounded man was carried out by stretcher. Legless, he sat rigidly upright, his right hand cocked in a military salute.

Premier Golda Meir, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur were among hundreds who greeted the returning Israelis.

"This is the first stage of the end of the war," said Dayan as the men, some in bandages and in casts, boarded ambulances for a brief drive to Tel Hashomer hospital.

He pledged that Israeli troops would not budge from the Syrian front "until all our prisoners are back."

In related developments, Syrian and Israeli generals planned to meet today in Geneva on other details of the agreement, aided by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and signed by the two sides Friday.

The Golan Heights front, scene of 81 days of Israeli and Syrian battles, became quiet shortly after the signing.

Israel and Syria agreed in the disengagement pact to swap wounded prisoners of war within 24 hours of the signing of the agreement. Other prisoners are to be exchanged after the generals finish their discussions in Geneva, for which five days have been allotted.

The Israelis say they hold 392 Syrians, 10 Iraqis and six Moroccans captured on the Syrian front. Syria reports holding 68 Israelis, three of them civilians.

Sources in Geneva speculated that the military teams, headed by Maj. Gen. Herzl Shafir, Israel's chief of armed forces operations, and Gen. Adnan Tayara of Syria, might finish their work in less than five days. They are working on such matters as how Syria and Israel will thin out their forces and the exact disengagement lines.

Palestinian politicians and guerrilla leaders planned to meet in Cairo today to discuss whether to join the Middle East peace talks scheduled to resume in Geneva or to continue their 26-year struggle against Israel.

Reports said they were sharply divided over what course to take.

The Palestinians also planned to discuss the possible creation of a separate Palestinian state in the Gaza Strip and the west bank of the Jordan River if Israel should give up those territories.

In other developments:

—The Beirut newspaper An Nahar reported that the United States and Syria, which broke relations during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, have decided in principle to resume relations.

—Washington sources said President Nixon may visit Syria during his Middle East trip this month. He is expected so far to stop in Egypt, Israel, Saudi Arabia and probably Jordan. Nixon is due to make a week-long trip to the Soviet Union on June 27.

Deluge hits southern U.S.

By The Associated Press
Heavy rains fell across eastern Texas and the central Gulf Coast states today.

More than an inch of rain fell in Memphis, Tenn., and at Charlottesville, Va. Flash flood watches were in effect for parts of Arkansas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Alabama and western Virginia and Maryland.

In southwest Louisiana many roads were impassable overnight. Flooding along the coast was aggravated by winds increasing tide levels.

A tornado was reported early today north of Austin, Tex.

Except for cloudy skies along the southern California coast, fair skies and warm air prevailed from the Pacific coast to the Rockies. It was also sunny in the plains, upper Mississippi Valley and Florida.

Temperatures were dropping into the 40s and 50s in the upper plains, Mississippi Valley, Ohio Valley and Great Lakes regions.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 37 at Lewiston, Mont., to 87 at Nellis Air Force Base in Nevada.

Pork Queen contest set

County Extension Agent, Agriculture
The Fayette County Pork Producers

will be selecting the 1974 Pork Queen

Contest girls must be single, age 16 - 19 inclusive as of January 1, 1974. Contestants must reside on a Fayette County farm on which hogs are raised
and be the daughter of parents now actively engaged in the production of pork.

Each contestant will be required to present a short talk on any subject related to the pork industry. Final selection of the Pork Queen will be based on poise, personality, content of the talk, participation in youth activities, and answers to judges questions.

Check field crop drainage adequacy

What is adequate drainage?

Soil and crop drainage improvements are considered complete when (1) subsurface drainage improvements are at the depth and spacing recommended in the Ohio Drainage Guide, 1973; (2) there are no surface depressions to collect and pond water; and (3) the outlet has sufficient depth and capacity to provide the degree of drainage desired, says Byron H. Nolte, Extension agricultural engineer, Ohio State University.

Nolte points out that many tile drainage systems in Ohio were installed more than 50 years ago. In some cases, these systems may need major repair, upgrading or replacement, he says. Where fields already have some drainage improvements, the owner or manager needs to determine if further improvements are justified. Factors to consider are soil, crops to be grown, surface drainage conditions, subsurface drainage, and adequacy of drainage outlets, Nolte explains.

THE DEGREE of drainage is illustrated by research results for the Toledo soil series, he says. Following a rain, research showed that the water table dropped about 0.5 feet per day with good surface drainage (graded to a 0.2 per cent slope) and a 56-foot tile spacing. However, where no surface drainage was provided and all water had to be removed by subsurface tile, a tile spacing of 32 feet was required to lower the water table 0.5 feet per day (24 hours). In general, tile spacing can be 50 per cent greater, when good surface drainage is provided, than when all water must be removed by the tile drains. For example, if tile spacings of 50 feet are recommended with poor surface drainage, you can expect about the same degree of drainage with 75-foot tile spacings and good surface drainage. If you have 100-foot tile spacings and good surface drainage, you have about the same degree of drainage as a 67-foot tile spacing and poor surface drainage.

Nolte says a field has good surface drainage when each field row slopes throughout its length toward a field surface drain (ditch) and the drain carries the surface water to an outlet ditch.

CORN PLANTING in Ohio as of May 20 was about 75 per cent complete and two weeks ahead of normal and compared to about 40 per cent last year. Of course Fayette County is well ahead of the state average. Many local farmers and fertilizer dealers we have talked with lately estimate corn planting in Fayette County is nearly complete with only small acreage remaining to be planted.

Soybeans planting in Ohio was 30 per cent completed on May 20 compared to 20 per cent last year. Again Fayette County is well ahead of the state in soybean planting progress. Several area farmers have expressed concern that some of the recently planted beans will have to be replanted because of the hard rains of this past week.

With all the concern for fertilizer and fuel shortages this year there is certainly a positive factor in this year's spring planting. We have had some of the best weather for planting and one of the earliest planting seasons of recent years. There is plenty of research available to show that this early planting should boost yields.

CORN AND Soybean producers
should sign up soon for the Fayette
County Corn and Soybean Production
Contests. The original deadline of June
1 has been extended to allow more farmers to participate in the contest.

WORKMEN'S Compensation Law
changes go into effect July 1, 1974. Any farmer employing one or more persons will be required to carry Workmen's Compensation Insurance. Sign-up forms are available at the Extension Office. There are severe penalties for violations of the Workmen's Compensation regulations.

Several factors loom for use of corn insecticide

COLUMBUS — Which soil insecticide
should be used in corn this year?

This is a choice producers have to make for a sizable corn acreage in Ohio
each year, says B.D. Blair, Extension
entomologist at Ohio State University.
The selection can be made correctly
only after a study of all available facts,
he says. Rotation, crop usage, field
history, planting date, cost, equipment available to apply insecticide, tillage method, and availability of compound,
all must be considered, he explains.

Rotation plays a part in some expected problems, Blair says. In the case of northern corn rootworm,
rotation can be used as a control measure. Too, very few soil insect problems have been observed in Ohio
where a soybean-corn rotation is used.
However, many insects can be expected where pasture and meadow fields of long-standing have been plowed up and planted to corn. In continuous corn, northern corn root-worms have to be considered and controls applied, he says.

Persistent compounds, broadcast
and incorporated before planting to give control of wireworms and cutworms, are recommended in Ohio for use only on non-livestock farms. The same holds true where corn is to be grown continuously and harvested for grain only. A field history, particularly of wireworms, is helpful in selection of compounds, even in rootworm compounds, since some rootworm compounds give partial control of wireworms.

Ohio cow sets national butterfat mark

Breezewood Patsy Bar Pontiac, a registered holstein cow owned by Gelbke Brothers of Vienna, Ohio,
Trumbull County, has set new 365-day
national milk and butterfat records with 45,270 pounds of milk and 2,191
pounds butterfat.

That's 14.4 gallons of milk per day or 21,104 quarts per year—enough to provide the morning delivery in a town of 21,000 population, says Louis W.
Jacquemin, Superintendent of Official testing in Ohio and Coordinator of Records for Ohio Ag Services, Inc. To say it another way, this 21,104 quarts of milk, based on 1972 per capita civilian use, is enough to provide an all-dairy-products-milk-equivalent for 81 people
for one year, Jacquemin explains.

record of 44,019 pounds (for 365 days)

ROCK-BOUND — The cliffs, rock-bound caves and massive boulders of Nelson-Kennedy Ledges State Park provide a perfect setting for a day-long outing or a short visit to take in the scenery. The rock formations in this 167-acre park are perfect spots for peaceful family picnics. Nelson-Kennedy Ledges State Park is 35 miles southeast of Cleveland off Ohio 282.

Workman's Compensation to be required July 1

Fayette County Farm Bureau
President Wayne Hidy has stressed the need for all farmers to have Workman's Compensation coverage by July 1.

All farmers employing one worker must be covered under the law by the July 1 date. "Farmers risk losing their farms if a worker is injured and they are not protected under the law," Hidy said. "If not covered, the farmer is liable for medical expenses and a portion of the employee's lost pay. In cases of death or severe injury, the cost could easily exceed $50,000," he said.

Double cropping hikes dairy feed production

Double cropping can boost feed
production for dairymen.

Double cropping consists of harvesting two crops in one year such as soybeans planted following harvest of a small grain crop, usually wheat or winter barley, say G.B. Triplett, Jr.
and R.W. Van Keuren, agronomists at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

However, with no-tillage making it possible to plant directly into sod, an early cutting of hay followed immediately by planting corn for silage is practical for feed production, research studies show.

The OARDC agronomists say conditions are ideal for rapid meadow growth in early spring and the first cutting in late May is usually the highest yielding for the season. Corn planted for grain production yields best with an early May planting date —
before maximum meadow production occurs. Thus, the producer who waits
for a meadow cutting before planting corn sacrifices grain yield potential,
they say.

Plant yield of corn, as related to planting date, is highest about two weeks after the planting date for maximum grain production, the agronomists reveal. Thus, if corn is harvested for silage, early planting is not as critical as for maximum grain

Farm Bureau members can also take advantage of a special consulting service, at reduced rates, to advise members on compensation. The Ohio
Farm Bureau has contracted with Compensation Consultants, Inc., of Columbus, to insure the members don't overpay, assist on claims, keep members informed of new regulations
and help keep rates as low as possible.

The service cost $5 the first year.
Thereafter, the fee is a minimum of $5
and a maximum of $15 depending on the size payroll.

Double cropping can boost feed
production for dairymen. The producer who grows corn for silage can add 1-1½ tons of hay dry matter per acre to corn yields by harvesting the first cutting of hay before planting corn.

For the double cropping system to be most effective, the hay should be taken off, possibly as haylage, and the corn planted before the end of May. Of course if meadow is mostly grass, nitrogen should have been applied in March or early April to increase production of the meadow crop.
Regardless of meadow composition, adequate fertilizer must be used for satisfactory corn yields.

Preliminary feeding trial results indicate that the silage from late planted corn is of excellent quality for dairy animals. Double cropping has not only produced more total feed per acre
than corn alone but also more total protein per acre through the hay
harvest. This double cropping system should help Ohio farmers produce more high quality feed per acre.

Preserving hay with chemicals

Ohio weather is hazardous for making baled, sun-cured hay, particularly during the spring and early summer. Thus, the possibility that chemicals may be used to shorten
drying time is very attractive.

As with most new products, some highly exaggerated claims are made,
including that hay can be successfully stored at moisture contents of 40 to 50 per cent. Trials conducted in 1973 at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center show that it is not possible to prevent heating of alfalfa hay above 100 degrees F when the moisture in the bale is above 25 per cent.

To be effective, chemical preservatives should inhibit mold growth and prevent temperatures in the hay from exceeding 100 degrees F in order to minimize the loss of nutritive value, especially protein, and maintain the digestibility of the crop. Varying rates of commercial spray-on hay preservative have been tried. Rates of 2 pounds per ton — recommended rate —
up to 10 pounds per ton were studied.
The higher rate delayed the heating of hay in storage at higher than 25 per cent moisture, but after several days
the chemicals appeared to lose their effectiveness and heating and molding occurred. At 25 per cent moisture, the 2 pounds per ton appeared to be effective
in preventing heating of the crop.
Below 20 per cent moisture, the hay crop did not heat in storage without preservatives.

Apple growers named to marketing group

Ohio Director of Agriculture Gene R.
Abercrombie has appointed three apple growers to three-year terms
beginning today on the Ohio Apple Marketing Program Operating Committee.

Two of the three orchardists are reappointments.

Reappointments are Roland J.
Schumaker, Port Clinton; and Richard
L. Bachman, Carroll. Daniel E. Simmons, Rt. 1, Rogers, is newly appointed.

"These three men are active and dedicated to Ohio's apple industry. The talent and expertise they will contribute to the Committee during the next three years will immeasurably aid efforts to unify growers and promote Ohio apples," Abercrombie said.

Hillsboro physician files $2.6 million damage suit

HILLSBORO — A $2.6 million slander and libel suit has been filed in Highland County Common Pleas Court by a Hillsboro physician, Dr. Barbara Lustgarten.

It is believed to be the largest damage suit ever filed in the Highland County court.

Named as defendants in the action are Dr. David S. Ayres, Dr. Paul W. Terrell and Mrs. John (Jean) Carson. Both physicians are general practitioners in the community while Mrs. Carson has been active in hospital auxiliary and health planning council affairs.

The plaintiff claims that until actions of the defendants as set forth in the suit, she had enjoyed a good name and reputation in practice of medicine.

SHE CHARGES specifically that the defendants "have conspired together and with others in Highland County since June 1, 1973, for the purpose of maliciously and outrageously slandering and libeling the plaintiff in her chosen profession as a physician and anesthesiologist for the purpose of injuring her good name and reputation and to curtail her economic success in the practice of her profession."

She also maintains that the defendants have stated publicly that the plaintiff came to Hillsboro "under false and fraudulent capacities as a physician and anesthesiologist."

The suit claims "they have said that her training is rotten, that her credentials are fake, that she lied to the hospital board, and have accused her of stealing."

The plaintiff also specifically charges that Dr. Ayres has maliciously and willfully slandered her by saying she was "guilty of unprofessional, cruel and unskillful treatment resulting in the death of at least one patient."

She also claims Dr. Ayres slandered her by stating that she has "solicited patients" and has accused her of conduct which would result in the death of many patients."

The plaintiff says these statements have been published both orally and in writing. She claims she has suffered a loss of income of $100,000 as a result, has been compelled to seek medical services, will suffer a future loss of earnings of $500,000.

She asks exemplary and punitive damages totaling $2 million.

KIRKPATRICK FUNERAL HOME

Dear friends,

There are a number of ways in which people will share the bereaved family's loss and express their love, respect, and grief. Some will come to both the visitation and the funeral service. Others will be at just one. Most who are at the funeral service will want to lend support to the family at the committal at graveside.

Respectfully,

Opinion And Comment

The CIA's authority

Almost no one outside the Central Intelligence Agency knows much about what the Central Intelligence Agency is up to. This includes Congress, and most notably the American public in whose interests the CIA presumably operates.

This is arguably essential in any intelligence operation — that it be secret. But a claim of absolute secrecy does not stand up well against the principle that in an open society all governmental powers, including those of secret intelligence services, should be clearly delineated and circumscribed.

These reflections are prompted by word that officials are thinking of disclosing the top secret authority under which the CIA has operated since 1947. This authority is embodied in National Security Council Intelligence Directives which have successively expanded the agency's powers. Such disclosure, with due regard to security considerations, would be welcome. The public has the right to know much more than it has thus far been told about what the CIA does.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

For the want of dignity

It was, I suppose, inevitable: I was drawn to those tapes like iron filings to a magnet. Particularly when a friend sent me the big, blue book, published by the Government Printing Office, which is double-spaced and not printed in a type size requiring a microscope. Probably just about everything that can be said on the subject has by now been printed three times, so I am not going to get involved in Talmudic explorations or (to balance the ticket) Jesuitical distinctions. The seven possible meanings of what D. said to P. on March 17 will be left to my brethren with a bent for cryptanalysis; what profoundly disturbs me about the document as a whole is the degree to which those arch-defenders of the "Presidency" dragged the executive function through the muck.

For openers, the tone of the conversations is sickening. As has been noted here, before, I have never believed that the President of the United States was converted into a god upon assuming office. Neither John Kennedy nor Lyndon Johnson could be portrayed as a candidate for "The Lives of the Saints." Moreover, I am not shocked by the (expletives deleted), though I am a bit curious to learn if some sanctimonious editor removed "Gee Whiz!" — it somehow seems to belong there. What stunned me was the total absence of what the Romans called "gravitas"; that is, inherent dignity in the President of the United States.

The flavor of the discussions in the Oval Office reminded me of the way the owners of a used car dealer would react to the news they had been caught turning back the mileage. I can attest from personal experience that one can argue with the President of the United States, even on occasion tell him (as I heard Joe Califano, Harry McPherson and George Christian, among others, do) that in your judgment he is dead wrong. But the dispute is on his terms. Lord knows, I am not famous for my deference to authority, but the thought of interrupting Lyndon Johnson in the middle of a sentence to say, "No, we can't do that," is mind-boggling. It assumes the President is a collectivity, a "we." It should hardly be necessary to point out that there is only one President.

To look at it from a different perspective, nobody ever elected John Roche tree warden — and John Ehrlichman and Bob Haldeman were in the same category. For them to sit around chatting as equals with the President, interrupting him in mid-sentence and literally, on occasion, ramming a decision down his throat is simply demeaning, not just to the President but to the American people who chose him to be chief executive.

In short, I don't object in principle to human vulgarity. I have heard a great deal of it in the army, in politics and, believe it or not, in the academic world. On occasions, I have regrettably been known to use (expletives deleted). What upsets me is constitutional vulgarity, which — to use a vivid instance — might be described as the difference between a President giving a drunken address at the Lincoln Memorial and the chief executive, say at Camp David, pleasantly and privately a bit buzzed. The atmosphere vividly conveyed by the tapes is one of constitutional vulgarity. Without making any substantive judgment on what Mr. Nixon knew before his March 21, 1973, session with John W. Dean III, it is perfectly clear to anyone who has ever spent any time in politics that from that day onwards the boys in the backroom were trying to fix the ticket.

I do not enjoy saying this; I hate to see the government of the United States splashed with muck. I have tried to give President Nixon the benefit of the doubt: I thought he was too smart to play those kinds of games. But there it is — and, for the benefit of Republican zealots, let me add that it doesn't do one bit of good to shriek, "Look how Wilson stole the election of 1916," or denounce L.B.J. for cheating at dominoes. The people are not interested in past sins, but in current regeneration.

"ACCORDING TO MY FIGURES WE HAVE A DOLLAR SIXTY FIVE LEFT OVER. SOMEBODY DIDN'T GET PAID."

Lottery depositories needed quickly, officials claim

By TERESA C. PITTS
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Millions of dollars anticipated from the state lottery still have no place to go, state officials said Thursday.

Spokesmen for the state auditor and treasurer's offices indicated impatience with state lottery commissioners on choosing depositories for lottery funds, expected to begin rolling in in August with the first ticket sales.

"What we need is a meeting of the minds," said Wayne Maloon, deputy state treasurer. Maloon said John Kirkland, the lottery's executive director, was expected in his office this week to discuss where, when and how the funds would be deposited.

Apparently the (lottery) director is assuming there's plenty of time between now and August to set something in motion," Maloon said.

"Whatever should be happening," he said, "it should be happening now."

A spokesman for Auditor Joseph Ferguson's office said a state examiner soon will be transferred to the Cleveland lottery headquarters for assignment fulltime to the commission. The examiner probably will come from Akron University, the spokesman said.

Additionally, about six auditors will be hired part-time to help with lottery audits, he said.

Ferguson said he met with commission chairman David Leahy last week, but that the depository system had not been discussed.

"We're going to discuss that too, later on," Ferguson said. "We've got to get the books set up right away because they have some money to pay salaries up there already."

The lottery was given $2 million by the legislature last year to fund students and pay consultant fees. The money has been held in the state treasury.

The plan most talked about involves designation of several regional banks, plus a central bank, Ferguson and Maloon said.

The plan, tentatively, calls for regional banks in Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Toledo, Dayton and Youngstown, said the auditor's spokesman.

Seven or eight banks so far have applied to be the central bank, he said. That bank would receive all the money from the other banks and would be paid either by a set fee or by being allowed to invest a portion of the deposits, Maloon said.

Banks probably would prefer the percentage method, he said.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Tell husband vacation should be fun for all

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I can't agree on what constitutes a vacation. Paul and I have four kids, ranging in ages from 10 to 16. Last summer a friend turned over his farm to us and we took the kids and spent three weeks there. Paul is a country boy at heart. He likes to get up at the crack of dawn and run the tractor and spend every evening rocking on the front porch, looking into space and listening to the crickets. Meanwhile, I do all the laundry, cooking and dishes. (This is a vacation?)

Paul wants to go to this farm again, and I say we should leave the kids at home and take a real vacation alone somewhere. My mother agreed to stay with our kids. What should I do? Take the credit cards and go to Reno?

CITY GIRL

DEAR CITY GIRL: To Reno with credit cards? What for? To gamble or file for a divorce? Why not compromise, and do what Paul wants to do for half the vacation and what you want to do for the second half?

DEAR ABBY: I'm not much of a letter writer, but I need some answers, so here goes:

The other day I got a questionnaire in the mail. It was a form to fill out. There were lots of questions about a friend of mine who apparently had applied for a job with a big company. Here are some of the questions:

Has ever been in trouble with the law?

Does drink? Moderately?

Excessively?

Does use drugs?

What do you know about general health?

Please name some of 's undesirable qualities.

Name some of 's good qualities.

Abby, my friend must have given my name for a reference or I wouldn't have received this questionnaire, right?

I have known this person for about 15 years, but I can't honestly answer some of these questions. In fact, if I could, I wouldn't want to. I'm afraid if I don't fill out this form, my friend won't get the job.

How would you handle this?

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: You are under no obligation to answer the questionnaire. I would write a letter telling what I DO know about the applicant and no more.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WHO AM I?"

You are a 19-year-old high school dropout who never made a serious effort to stick with anything once the going got rough.

You didn't listen to your father because you thought advice from a "loser" wasn't worth anything.

You didn't graduate from high school because you were too lazy to make your grades, so you told yourself that school was a waste of time, that you had learned all there was to learn there, and you'd be better off in the business world.

Determined as you were to do "your own thing," you haven't done anything because you still don't know what "your own thing" is.

Right now you aren't anybody. But if you sincerely want to be somebody, do this: Go back to school. (Adult education-night classes are available for those who work days.) First, get your high school diploma, then learn a trade or develop a special skill, and work like a sonuvagun. You will then be "somebody," and you won't have to write to Dear Abby to find out who you are.

MRS. JOSEPH S. GREEN

Estes Chapel, Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Ky., was the setting Friday evening for the marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Miller, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Paul Miller Sr. of Sabina, and Joseph Sturm Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Green of Appalachia, Va.

The bride's father, the Rev. Mr. Miller, the groom's brother, the Rev. Allen Green of Royston, Ga., and the bride's brother, the Rev. Joseph Miller of Wilmore, Ky., performed the wedding ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white organza trimmed in Venice lace with long sheer sleeves accented with daisy appliques. The high waistline was accented with a chapel-length train. Her elbow-length three-tiered veil was of illusion and she carried a bouquet of white roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

Maid of honor Miss Evangeline Miller, sister of the bride, wore a floor-length gown of yellow dotted Swiss following the same style of the bride's gown, and trimmed in Venice lace. A six-inch ruffle at the hemline accented the small train at the back of the dress. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies and yellow roses.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Craig Carter of Columbus, cousin of the bride, Miss Darlene Neff of Ashville, and Miss Ginny Olds, of Sabina, friends of the bride, and Miss Teresa Miller of Columbus, niece of the bride, all wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor. Each carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Mr. Roy A. Green, father of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Sam Green and Eddie Green, brothers of the groom of Appalachia, Robert Miller Jr., Columbus, brother of the bride, and David Green, another brother of the groom of Virginia.

Hostesses for the reception held in the Cordelia Thomas Dining Room, Asbury Seminary, were Mrs. Joseph Miller of Wilmore, Ky., and Mrs. Robert Miller Jr. of Columbus, sisters-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Eddie Green of Virginia, and Mrs. Allen Green of Royston, Ga., sisters-in-law of the groom. A yellow, mint green and white color scheme prevailed in the decorations. Mrs. John Davis of Virginia, the groom's sister, presided at the guest book.

Mrs. Miller chose for her daughter's wedding a pink and beige floor-length gown trimmed in pink Venice lace. She wore a corsage of pink daisies and pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore an aqua blue floor-length gown trimmed in silver. She wore a corsage of yellow daisies and yellow roses. The rehearsal dinner took place at the Springs Motel Restaurant in Lexington, Ky.

The bridegroom will be pastoring a United Methodist charge in Virginia after June 23.

CF Leaders meet in Grace Church

The May meeting of the Paint Valley Council of Camp Fire Girls Leader's Association took place in Grace United Methodist Church. Mrs. Ralph Tate, chairman, called the meeting to order and minutes from the April meeting were read by Mrs. Jack Ferguson.

A discussion concerning the Old Cemetery took place. The Camp Fire Girls have had the Old Cemetery as their annual project for the past few years. It was announced the Kiwanis Club has also accepted the Old Cemetery as its project. The CF Girls have purchased an American flag which will be flown every Memorial Day. Mrs. Tate will contact the Kiwanis Club president to see if both groups might work together on the project.

Mrs. Charles Harris was appointed to attend a meeting concerning the carnival to be held against Muscular Dystrophy. Last year the Camp Fire Girls was the sole sponsor with a total of $600.00 raised, but this year, several organizations will participate in the project. She will report at the next leader's meeting.

In June a Memorial to the late Mrs. Caroline Murdock will be dedicated at Camp Murdock. All CF groups are urged to participate.

One June 16, "Tents Up Day" at Camp Murdock will be held for the opening of Day Camp on June 17.

The next leader's meeting will be July 9 at 1 p.m. in Grace United Methodist Church.

Those present were Mrs. Tate, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. James Valentine, Mrs. Charles Zinn, Mrs. Bert Yarger, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Gerald Wheat, Mrs. Dave Shepler, Mrs. Herb Satterfield and Mrs. Paul Edgington.

BANANA OATMEAL PANCAKES

- 1½ cups milk
- 1-3rd cup butter or margarine
- 1½ cup quick-cooking oats, uncooked
- 1-3rd cup unsifted flour
- 1½ teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 eggs, separated
- 2 ripe bananas, peeled and diced.

In a 1-quart saucepan heat the milk and butter until butter melts and small bubbles appear around the edge.

Remove from heat and stir in the oatmeal; let stand until cool.

On paper, thoroughly stir together

the flour, baking powder, salt, sugar and cinnamon.

Whisk the egg yolks into the oatmeal mixture; add the flour mixture and stir just until blended.

Beat egg whites until stiff; fold, along with bananas, into oatmeal mixture.

Onto a lightly greased hot griddle, using moderate heat, drop batter by ¼ cupfuls several inches apart; with a small metal spatula, spread each pancake until 3 to 4 inches in diameter; cook until bubbles appear and top is slightly dry — about 3 minutes; turn and brown other side.

Phillies fall to second with loss to Giants

By The Associated Press

Here come the Cincinnati Reds... and there go the Philadelphia Phillies.

Those loud footsteps behind the pace-setting Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West belong to the Reds, division champions in three of the last four years, who won their seventh consecutive game Friday night, downing Pittsburgh 7-5.

Meanwhile, in the East, a lovely May came to a dreary conclusion for the Phillies, who saw their stay at the top of the division end along with the month Friday night when they bowed to the San Francisco Giants 6-2.

In other National League games Friday, Houston rapped New York 7-1, St. Louis shut out San Diego 5-0 and Los Angeles defeated Chicago 8-3. Atlanta's game at Montreal was rained out.

The Reds are still a fat seven games behind the sizzling Dodgers in the West but Los Angeles also had that kind of lead a year ago and Cincinnati wiped it out.

The Pirates were nursing a 5-3 lead into the seventh on a pair of homers by Bob Robertson but Johnny Bench's bases-loaded triple turned it around. "The balls were really carrying tonight," the Reds' slugger said. "I thought mine was a sacrifice fly but it carried to the fence. And with my lightning speed," he added with a grin, "I waltzed into third base standing up."

Philadelphia is also streaking, but in the wrong direction. The Phillies dropped their fifth in a row and slipped into second place in the East, one percentage point back of St. Louis.

Manager Danny Ozark thinks he knows what's wrong with his Phillies.

"It's a lack of confidence," said Ozark. "We're taking pitches we should hit. We've become less aggressive at bat. We're talking ourselves into a slump."

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — It was almost a replay of the fifth game of the National League playoffs in 1972. The bases were loaded, Dave Giusti was on the mound and John Bench came to the plate.

The crowd of 40,205 was on its feet when Johnny Bench tagged the one-and-one pitch to left. This time it didn't go over the wall, but Bench had a three-run triple to put the Reds ahead 6-5.

Dave Concepcion then singled home for the final run, giving Cincinnati a 7-5

victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and their seventh win in a row.

"People remembered the home run," said Bench. "They reacted when I went up there. It's the first time in Riverfront Stadium I've had to go against Giusti in a crucial situation since the 1972 playoffs."

Bench's home run tied the playoff game and the Reds went on to win.

"It's been a while since I've gotten an important hit off him," Bench said of Giusti. He's pitched me tough."

Bench said it was a hanging curve ball, "and I thought it was only a sacrifice fly, but it carried out to the fence." Bench said he hit it "almost one-handed. I've had a sore thumb lately."

Pittsburgh had carried a 5-3 lead into the seventh, paced by two home runs by Bob Robertson.

Robertson has had five home runs and driven in 12 runs in the last five games. "I can't explain it," he said. "I just seem to be making contact."

Jim Rooker, 2-4, gave up seven of the 11 walks allowed by Pittsburgh pitchers in the contest.

"You know walks hurt you," said Bench. "Rooker is a good pitcher. He just didn't have his control tonight. Our pitchers always pay for walks."

Cincinnati's Dave Concepcion singled home Joe Morgan in the first, but the Reds went down 3-1 on Robertson's two-run homer in the second and Rooker's run-scoring double.

Morgan made it 3-2 on a single in the third, bringing home Andy Kosco and Richie Hebner's run-scoring single in the fourth made it 4-2.

Pete Rose collected a RBI in the fourth, then Robertson blasted another homer in the fifth making it 5-3.

Pedro Borbon, 3-2, who came on in the fifth, got the victory.

Reds starter Jack Billingham, taken out for a pinch hitter in the third, did not figure in the game.

Pittsburgh hurler Dock Ellis drew a stir when Manager Danny Murtaugh ordered him to warm up in the eighth, but he was not used.

Ellis had said earlier he would "not pitch one inning in relief," but Murtaugh countered: "He'll pitch if I tell him so."

Asked after the game if they argued, Murtaugh said:

"I never have any trouble with Dock."

Roger Nelson, 3-3, goes to the hill tonight for Cincinnati opposed by Ken Brett, 5-3, in the second of the three-game series.

Royals dampen Indians with 4-2 setback in rain

By The Associated Press

Fortunately for the Great Wallenda, he didn't walk across the top of Cleveland's Municipal Stadium until after the Royals-Indians game Friday night.

If the tightrope walker had decided on a practice run, say, during the Kansas City fourth inning, there might have been trouble.

A wire cable had been strung above the field for a typical death-defying Wallenda performance. And Vada Pinson, just trying to be helpful as rain pelted the players, fans and field, hit the wire with a fly ball.

"I did it to knock the rain off," Pinson joked after the Royals' 4-2 victory. "So he wouldn't slip, you know."

Although Pinson took the fluke in stride, the real damage was done by Amos Otis' two-run single and John Mayberry's 10th home run of the season, which gave the Royals a 3-2 lead. Jim Wohlford brought in the other run to lower Steve Kline's record to 3-8.

John Lowenstein and Jack Brohamer drove in the Cleveland runs.

A's 5, Brewers 2
Joe Rudi's three-run home run was the highlight of a five-run Oakland fourth inning in the victory over Milwaukee.

Dave Hamilton and Rollie Fingers combined for a seven-hitter, permitting one run each. Milwaukee's Bob Ellis drove one run home with a single in the second inning and Don Money the other in the eighth.

Angel Mangual drove in another run for the A's. The other scored on a wild pitch.

Angles 5, Tigers 3
Ellie Rodriguez drove in four runs with two solo home runs and a double to carry California past Detroit.

Rodriguez hit the double in the second inning, broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning with his third home run of the season, and added insurance with a homer in the seventh to hand Mickey

Lolich his sixth loss against five victories.

Rangers 7, Orioles 6
Toby Harrah stroked three hits—including the tie-breaking single in seventh inning—and scored twice to pace the Texas triumph over Baltimore.

The Orioles knocked out Rangers ace Ferguson Jenkins with four runs in the first, but Harrah brought Texas back.

Rankin leads tourney

BALTIMORE (AP) — Picking up where she left off last year, defending champion Judy Rankin led the Baltimore Golf Championship with a two-under-par 71 at Pine Ridge.

Mrs. Rankin's game Friday was highlighted by a birdie-four at the 18th green, when she chipped in from behind the putting surface, 35 feet from the cup.

The birdie put veteran Kathy Whitworth and rookie Jerilyn Britz in a tie for second place at 72, with Carol

Mann, Mary Lou Crocker, Judy Meister and Beth Stone following at 73.

Mrs. Rankin came into the event backed by 4-3-2 finishes the last three weeks.

She began with a birdie-four on the opening hole, when she dropped a six-foot putt.

She came to within a foot for a birdie-four at the 12th, but gave it back at the next hole when she skied her tee shot and never recovered.

Entrance was apparently gained through a rear window which had been broken, according to Sheriff's Sgt. William R. Crooks.

HOSPITAL-BOUND — After more than 15 minutes of struggling in the mud, rescuers were able to get William A. Sams Sr., 46, of Fairborn, out of his pickup truck and into a waiting ambulance. The doors of the truck had been im-packed in the mud, and a wrecker had to be called. Sams was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released. In a car not far behind Sams was a paramedic who remained with the victim until he was transported to the hospital.

Fairborn driver injured in accident on U.S. 35-S

A Fairborn man was injured in an accident Friday afternoon and charged by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department with reckless operation. Sheriff's deputies also investigated two other accidents which occurred Friday.

William A. Sams Sr., 46, of Fairborn, was injured in an accident at 12:45 p.m. Friday, near the intersection of U.S. 35-S and Camp Grove Road.

Sams had been driving his truck southeast on U.S. 35 and failed to negotiate a right curve. His truck traveled off the right side of the road and 149 feet in the ditch and then struck a fence owned by William B. Dunn, Rt. 6, continued for 45 more feet through the air over Camp Run Creek, colliding with the bank on the opposite side and then falling back into the water where it overturned on its left side.

Sams was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by Gerstner-Kinzer ambulance service and treated for injuries sustained to his right leg and chest. He was then released.

Sheriff's deputies investigating the mishap charged Sams with reckless operation and reported his truck severely damaged.

A young Fayette County man also had trouble negotiating a right curve Friday.

Tony Gale Carter, 16, Rt. 4, skidded out of a curve on Ohio 41, one mile north of Washington C.H. and traveled 87 feet off the road before colliding with a metal guardrail and sliding along it for 42 feet.

Carter's car then spun around in the road slid 92 feet off the right side of the road and collided with a fence owned by Jess Crago, Rt. 3.

Sheriff's deputies reported moderate damage to Carter's auto and the guardrail, but no injury.

The third accident occurred at 10:55 a.m. Friday and involved a car driven by Mark Scott Stewart, 19, Greenfield.

Stewart was traveling on Ohio 753, two-tenths of a mile south of Miami Trace Road, when he lost control on wet pavement while heading into a curve.

His car went off the left side of the road and struck a fence owned by Hugh Sollars, Greenfield, sheriff's deputies reported.

By The Associated Press Cool temperatures are forecast to continue over the state this weekend, despite sunny skies.

High temperatures today and Sunday were forecast from the mid 60s along Lake Erie to the low 70s near the Ohio River.

A cold front extending early today from New York through Pennsylvania and West Virginia to central Tennessee is moving eastward, away from Ohio.

Meanwhile, a poorly-organized high, centered in Montana this morning, covers most of the central and northwestern United States.

Rain persisted along the Ohio River overnight and clouds continued over the remainder of the state in the wake of the cold front. Temperatures at dawn today ranged from the low 50s to mid 60s.

Mild Monday through Wednesday with a chance of showers about Wednesday. Highs in the upper 70s and low 80s. Lows in the 50s and low 60s.

Legion spokesman defends policy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state commander of the American Legion says persons criticizing policies of Buckeye Girls State are speaking "out of emotion without knowing all of the facts."

David Cropper was responding to criticism of a policy against allowing handicapped girls to participate in the program.

"We have had and will continue to have participation by handicapped boys and girls who can meet the strenuous activities of Boys and Girls State," he said.

Man charged with possession of explosives

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Exploding grenades in a wooded area near here led police and U.S. Treasury agents Friday to an "arsenal" of grenades, ammunition, blasting caps and 25 pounds of TNT, authorities said.

A 45-year-old Army Reserve sergeant, Lester Bortmas of Youngstown, was arrested and charged with illegal possession of firearms, police said. He was released on $10,000 bond.

A visiting Youngstown policeman heard the grenades and alerted Austintown authorities, police said. Police said they found a 14-year-old youth with a sack of grenades, and he led them to Bortmas.

Police say the youth got the grenades from a shack in the woods.

Adult vo-ed registration scheduled at Laurel Oaks

WILMINGTON — The Laurel Oaks Career Development Campus, located on the site of the former Clinton County Air Force Base near Wilmington, is presently accepting registrations for the summer term classes which begin June 17 and end Aug. 1.

Dr. Maurice C. Hartle, adult education director, said there will be a limited number of courses offered during the summer term.

Courses to be offered are farm equipment and repair, accounting and bookkeeping, typing, small business management, cake decorating, child care, re-upholstery, auto mechanics, electrical wiring, welding and truck driver training.

IN ADDITION, there will be special interest enrichment courses in art and metric measurements. The GED exam preparation (high school equivalency) will also be available for those who require it.

With the exception of truck driver training, all courses will be offered on Monday and or Wednesday evenings. Time of classes are from 6:30 until 9:30 p.m. Most of the courses have been approved by Veterans Administration for GI Bill of Rights for payment to veterans.

Dr. Hartle said the registration period will end on June 10. Students may register in person at the Laurel Oaks campus or by mail.

At least four state agencies have decided to exclude themselves from the Girls State program this year.

Gov. John J. Gilligan said he will attend the week-long "Democracy in Action" program, but his wife, Katie, has written to the president of the Ohio American Legion Auxiliary to express "personal dismay at the continued discrimination on the part of Buckeye Girls State against handicapped young women."

The boycotts involve the auxiliary's policy of barring handicapped students "who cannot carry on the fast-paced program independently."

Neither Mrs. George Sallot, president of the Ohio auxiliary, nor Mrs. Lester Merritt, director of Girls' State, was available for comment Friday.

"As you may know, I have spent a great deal of time during the past several years traveling throughout Ohio to promote what I call 'child advocacy' — attempting to show the people of Ohio that many so-called

More high prices for oil feared

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil company officials warn that Americans could again be paying high prices for scarce fuel if nations controlling most of the world's oil exports decide to increase oil taxes.

A plan now under consideration by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) will raise prices at the gasoline pump if it is adopted, according to a major oil company official.

The executive also said the United States could again experience supply problems since the higher taxes could eliminate marginal oil operators.

handicapped youngsters are in fact capable of leading normal, productive lives if they are given the chance," Mrs. Gilligan said.

"Too many young people have been consigned to a life of dependency simply because those who could have helped them chose instead to treat them as helpless cripples rather than as intelligent, capable men and women who, with a minimum of help and understanding, could be ready to take their place in the so-called 'normal' society," Mrs. Gilligan wrote.

She urged the auxiliary to reconsider its policy so that the program will not be operating in a way "that should have long ago been rejected as archaic."

Robert Tenenbaum, Gilligan's press secretary, said the governor is opposed to the policy, but will participate because he "feels it would be unfair to penalize all the other participants who didn't have anything to do with making up that rule."

Officials of the departments of Economic and Community Development, Bureau of Employment Services, Rehabilitation and Correction and Taxation have said they will not participate this year.

Executive-Judicial confrontation

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has agreed to make an early decision on whether President Nixon may withhold White House evidence sought in the trials of his former top assistants.

The high court scheduled a July 8 hearing on the case, which centers on arguments over the doctrine of executive privilege.

Simply put, the issue is whether Nixon may continue to claim the right to keep secret communications he had with men who were once his closest associates, but who are now charged with crimes.

Leon Jaworski, the special Watergate prosecutor, says his need for tapes and documents in the upcoming Watergate cover-up trial transcends the President's executive privilege.

Meanwhile, on Capitol Hill, Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. of the House Judiciary Committee ruled out of order a move to call witnesses to testify about the alleged payment of $75,000 in hush money to Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr.

Rodino said the impeachment inquiry rules prohibit consideration of calling witnesses until completion of the initial presentation of evidence.

Rodino also turned back without a vote suggestions to release all or part of the evidence the committee has heard so far since the committee has met in closed-door sessions. But he directed the staff to begin compiling the material for possible release later.

The New Jersey Democrat also indicated that few of the committee's hearings would be open to the public. He said it was likely that sessions in which evidence is presented will be closed but that committee debates on consideration of evidence already presented will be open.

In the case that the Supreme Court agreed to hear, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica has ordered Nixon to turn over tapes and documents relating to 64 conversations Nixon had with his aides in the year following the original June 17, 1972, Watergate break-in.

In persuading the Supreme Court to take the case, Jaworski is skipping over the U.S. Court of Appeals. Jaworski had argued that without quick action on the issue of subpoenas sent to the White House, the trial of seven men charged in the Watergate cover-up would be unfairly delayed. It is set to begin Sept. 9.

Among those charged with obstruction of justice in the case are former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, and former White House aides to Nixon, H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

In another Watergate case Friday, Jaworski found himself an ally of the White House.

Ehrlichman and another ex-White House assistant Charles W. Colson are seeking notes and records they left behind in the White House.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell backed Colson and Ehrlichman, but Jaworski said a compromise offered by Nixon's lawyer, James D. St. Clair, "seems adequate at this time."

Jaworski suggested Gesell kill subpoenas delivered to the President.

Ehrlichman, Colson and three others are accused of conspiring to violate the civil rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. The charges involve a break-in at Fielding's Beverly Hills, Calif., office designed to obtain material on Ellsberg, who leaked the Pentagon papers to news media.

Gesell has agreed that the defendants, their attorneys and the special prosecutor should have access to the personal papers of the men.

Nixon softened his previous position Thursday, by declaring a willingness to allow Colson's and Ehrlichman's attorneys to review potential evidence.

U.S. food prices show May jump

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Consumers encouraged by recent price declines found during May that relief was shortlived. An Associated Press marketbasket survey showed the family grocery bill went up again last month.

The AP checked the prices of 15 food and nonfood items in 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked at the start of each succeeding month. The figures in the latest survey reflected the April 30 end of price controls and the continuing spiral in commodities prices on the world market.

The latest AP check showed that during May the marketbasket total went up in eight cities, rising an average of 4 per cent, and declined in five. It was the reverse of the situation in April when the bill went down in eight cities and up in five. During March, the marketbasket total went down in nine cities.

The bill at the end of May was higher than on March 1, 1973, in every city. Increases averaged 15 per cent and ranged from 5 per cent in Seattle to 23 per cent in Boston.

Eggs were about the only real bargain around. In many cities, the current price was lower than the March 1, 1973, level. The decline has been a steady one, caused by increased supplies of eggs. The average price of a dozen, medium white eggs in the latest survey was 54 cents, down 11 per cent from the figure one month ago and down 13 per cent from the cost on March 1, 1973.

In a less encouraging vein, however, detergent, which remained fairly steady in earlier months, shot up in nine cities during May, rising an average of 8 per cent.

Sugar which started rising last year and has climbed ever since went up again in 10 cities during May and stayed unchanged in three. The average price was $1.38, up 12 per cent from the $1.23 figure at the end of April and up 89 per cent the 73-cent figure on March 1, 1973.

The cities in the AP survey were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

The items on the checklist were: chopped chuck, pork chops, paper towels, frozen orange juice, coffee, butter, eggs, peanut butter, detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

Lottery ticket applications set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The deputy executive director of the Ohio Lottery Commission has announced that applications for licenses to sell lottery tickets now are available.

Jim Dickerson said the applications can be obtained at any state liquor store or state-authorized package store. He said eligible applicants include persons engaged in a "viable retail business" or non-profit groups and organizations.

Teen gunmen free hostages

RANCHO CORDOVA, Calif. (AP) — Two teen-aged gunmen walked calmly out of a Sacramento area bank and surrendered after holding 25 hostages, some for more than seven hours.

They left behind 17 uninjured captives and $1 million in ransom, the money stacked neatly in six-inch high bundles along one wall of the bank.

The drama began shortly before noon Friday and ended after bank officials collected the massive ransom and dropped it through the bank's night collection chute in 91 brown paper bags.

At different times during the ordeal,

the gunmen forced two women hostages into the bank vault and taped a shotgun to their necks, said Bill Miller of the Sacramento County Sheriff's office.

He identified the youths as Michael Madigan, 19, and Brian Young, 18, both of Rancho Cordova. Both were booked initially for investigation of armed robbery.

Authorities said a third youth, who was not identified, was taken into custody and was being questioned as a possible participant in the planning of the holdup.

Miller said the teen-age bandits burst

into a shopping center bank and herded 24 customers and employees into a corner.

About 100 policemen circled the bank and cordoned off surrounding streets and parking lots.

The youths demanded the $1 million ransom and an assurance of free passage out of town in exchange for their prisoners.

The youths agreed to release eight of the hostages in exchange for a sheriff's corporal.

Officer Robert Ruh stripped to the waist, walked into the bank and over the next five hours talked the youths into surrendering.

"After I talked to both of them I figured it was just a matter of time," he said. "I used every means I could to appeal to their logic."

In a televised interview during the ordeal, both gunmen said they desperately needed the money.

"I can't get a job. I can't do nothing. I have no money. I've gone hungry. My dad's been sick. My old man almost died," Madigan said.

"I'm going to blow my brains out. I wouldn't be doing this except I just need the money. I can't stand living like I am."

Young said he participated in the robbery because of personal problems — "There was no food, I didn't have a job, I have no transportation."

"I was crazy to do this and I regret doing it in a sense," Madigan said. "But as long as I did it, I got what I want. I got to talk to people how this establishment gets stuff out of you."

The two youths lived next door to each other. Neighbors said both families were financially hard-pressed and that Madigan's father was an invalid.

Mideast war prisoners traded

Premier Golda Meir, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur were among hundreds who greeted the returning Israelis.

"This is the first stage of the end of the war," said Dayan as the men, some in bandages and in casts, boarded ambulances for a brief drive to Tel Hashomer hospital.

He pledged that Israeli troops would not budge from the Syrian front "until all our prisoners are back."

In related developments, Syrian and Israeli generals planned to meet today in Geneva on other details of the agreement, aided by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and signed by the two sides Friday.

The Golan Heights front, scene of 81 days of Israeli and Syrian battles,

said in a draft report to committee members.

"The cost was shared by the government and American consumers," the committee said.

It said the extra cost came both in taxpayer outlays in government milk purchases and in increased prices to consumers as the decision pushed up retail milk prices.

The 359-page draft report, a copy of which was obtained by The Associated Press, also said Nixon's decision appeared to be directly linked to campaign contributions by the dairy farmer lobby. The report also charged that serious deficiencies exist in Nixon's argument that congressional pressure forced him to raise prices.

It said the largest of the dairy cooperatives, Associated Milk Producers Inc., linked campaign donations and requests for government favors even as early as its first, secret, $100,000 cash gift to Nixon in 1969, according to testimony by former Nixon fund-raiser Herbert L. Kalmback.

The Watergate Committee report said the White House overstated the strength of congressional support for a price increase.

The White House conceded that President Nixon was aware that dairy men promised to donate $200 million to his campaign when he raised prices, but it denies this promise influenced him.

In addition, the White House argued that the retail price of milk rose less than the general rate of inflation after Nixon's price increase. But the committee said the cost of milk to consumers actually would have declined had Nixon not increased the support level.

The committee staff said the price increase ordered by Nixon actually was about one cent per 100 pounds more than would have been granted by those members of Congress who supported bills to boost prices. The report also said a congressional price increase would have been less helpful to the dairy men because it would have come later than Nixon's.

The staff report was written principally by Democratic staff members David Dorsen and Alan Weitz. A second report dealing with apparently illegal political donations by dairy men to Democratic presidential candidates, including Rep. Wilbur D. Mills and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, is being prepared by Republican staff members and should be circulated to the committee soon.

critical," said Minnesota Agricultural Commissioner Jon Wefald.

"We have asked for a disaster designation and federal assistance because of the heavy rainfall and the late, cold spring which prevented farmers from planting," he said.

Illinois and Iowa farmers must soon decide whether to switch to early-maturing soybeans instead of hoping to salvage a corn crop.

University of Illinois agronomist Darrell Mulvaney said the situation is most serious in northern Illinois.

"This is the longest period I can remember that farmers have been unable to work the ground," Mulvaney said, noting about 50 per cent of the corn has been planted and 20 to 25 per cent of this suffered extensive water damage and may have to be replanted.

The U.S. Durum Growers Association said adverse weather conditions and spring flooding have created a critical situation for North Dakota farmers, delaying planting by more than four weeks.

Officials said more than 90 per cent of the nation's durum, used in such foodstuffs as macaroni and spaghetti, is produced in North Dakota and farmers are thinking about shifting to other crops.

Central Kansas had recent heavy rains, but "adverse effects are rather limited," says the Kansas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. The outlook in Missouri and Wisconsin is good, according to state agriculture officials.

By The Associated Press
Joyous crowds in Damascus and Tel Aviv greeted the first returning prisoners of the October war today as Israel and Syria began the exchange of wounded POWs promised in their disengagement pact.

Red Cross medical planes left the two cities minutes apart this morning carrying 38 repatriated prisoners, some legless or in casts.

An hour later, 12 wounded Israeli soldiers stepped off the chartered Fokker Friendship plane at Ben-Gurion airport near Tel Aviv to kisses, tears and flowers from mini-skirted women soldiers.

At about the same time 25 Syrians and one Moroccan arrived to a wildly emotional welcome in Damascus. Red-bellied military police forced a mob of hundreds from the plane to enable the POWs to disembark.

Women wailed and men cheered in Damascus as the plane taxied to a halt. But a hush fell over the mob as the first

VOLUNTEER RESCUERS — A number of passersby and a wrecker were required Friday afternoon to free William A. Sams Sr., 48, of Fairborn, from his pickup truck in Camp Run Creek. Sams drove off the right side of the road into the creek with such force that he was wedged between the

Campaign gift tied to milk price hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The staff of the Senate Watergate Committee says President Nixon's order to raise federal milk price supports in 1971 may have cost consumers and taxpayers more than $300 million.

"The President's decision was apparently worth anywhere from $300 million to $700 million in extra income to dairy farmers," the committee staff

Heavy rains hurt nation's farmers

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — "I've been farming all my life, and this situation is very bad," says Iowa farmer Kirk Bennett.

"Two weeks ago it looked like the biggest crop we'd ever have — before this rainy spell set in."

Bennett, 52, who farms near Mapleton in western Iowa, echoed the thoughts of thousands of farmers in the upper Midwest whose crops are in jeopardy because of prolonged spring rains.

Crop production problems caused by heavy rains aren't universal throughout nine Midwestern states surveyed Friday. Some even have drought areas, while others are experiencing normal spring planting.

Severe damage to corn and small grain crops appeared most likely in a wide east-west belt across central Iowa, portions of North Dakota and Illinois and in Minnesota's Red River Valley.

Iowa farmers didn't get all their corn crop planted before four weeks of sustained heavy rain began.

Iowa Gov. Robert Ray said an assessment is being made to determine if Iowa farmers should seek federal disaster loans.

Heavy rains fell across eastern Texas and the central Gulf Coast states today.

More than an inch of rain fell in Memphis, Tenn., and at Charlottesville, Va. Flash flood watches were in effect for parts of Arkansas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Alabama and western Virginia and Maryland.

In southwest Louisiana many roads were impassable overnight. Flooding along the coast was aggravated by winds increasing tide levels.

A tornado was reported early today north of Austin, Tex.

Except for cloudy skies along the southern California coast, fair skies and warm air prevailed from the Pacific coast to the Rockies. It was also sunny in the plains, upper Mississippi Valley and Florida.

Temperatures were dropping into the 40s and 50s in the upper plains, Mississippi Valley, Ohio Valley and Great Lakes regions.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 37 at Lewiston, Mont., to 87 at Nellis Air Force Base in Nevada.

Pork Queen contest set

County Extension Agent, Agriculture
The Fayette County Pork Producers

will be selecting the 1974 Pork Queen
Thursday, June 13. Fayette County girls who are interested have until Monday, June 10 to enter the queen contest.

To be eligible for the Pork Queen
Contest girls must be single, age 16 - 19
inclusive as of January 1, 1974. Contestants must reside on a Fayette County farm on which hogs are raised
and be the daughter of parents now actively engaged in the production of pork.

Each contestant will be required to present a short talk on any subject
related to the pork industry. Final selection of the Pork Queen will be based on poise, personality, content of the talk, participation in youth ac-
questions.

All entries must be submitted to the Extension Office no later than Monday, June 10th.

CORN PLANTING in Ohio as of May 20 was about 75 per cent complete and two weeks ahead of normal and
compared to about 40 per cent last
year. Of course Fayette County is well ahead of the state average. Many local farmers and fertilizer dealers we have talked with lately estimate corn
planting in Fayette County is nearly complete with only small acreage
remaining to be planted.

cent completed on May 20 compared to 20 per cent last year. Again Fayette County is well ahead of the state in soybean planting progress. Several area farmers have expressed concern
that some of the recently planted beans
will have to be replanted because of the
hard rains of this past week.

With all the concern for fertilizer and
fuel shortages this year there is certainly a positive factor in this year's
the best weather for planting and one of
the earliest planting seasons of recent years. There is plenty of research available to show that this early planting should boost yields.

CORN AND Soybean producers
should sign up soon for the Fayette
County Corn and Soybean Production
Contests. The original deadline of June
1 has been extended to allow more farmers to participate in the contest.

WORKMEN'S Compensation Law
changes go into effect July 1, 1974. Any farmer employing one or more persons
will be required to carry Workmen's Compensation Insurance. Sign-up
forms are available at the Extension Office. There are severe penalties for violations of the Workmen's Compensation regulations.

Several factors loom for use of corn insecticide

COLUMBUS — Which soil insecticide
should be used in corn this year?

This is a choice producers have to make for a sizable corn acreage in Ohio
each year, says B.D. Blair, Extension
entomologist at Ohio State University.
The selection can be made correctly
only after a study of all available facts,
he says. Rotation, crop usage, field
history, planting date, cost, equipment
method, and availability of compound,
all must be considered, he explains.

Rotation plays a part in some expected problems, Blair says. In the case of northern corn rootworm,
rotation can be used as a control
measure. Too, very few soil insect problems have been observed in Ohio
where a soybean-corn rotation is used.
However, many insects can be expected where pasture and meadow
fields of long-standing have been plowed up and planted to corn. In continuous corn, northern corn root-
worms have to be considered and
controls applied, he says.

Persistent compounds, broadcast
and incorporated before planting to
give control of wireworms and cutworms, are recommended in Ohio for use only on non-livestock farms. The
same holds true where corn is to be grown continuously and harvested for grain only. A field history, particularly
of wireworms, is helpful in selection of compounds, even in rootworm compounds, since some rootworm compounds give partial control of wireworms.

Breezewood Patsy Bar Pontiac, a
registered holstein cow owned by Gelbke Brothers of Vienna, Ohio,
Trumbull County, has set new 365-day
national milk and butterfat records
with 45,270 pounds of milk and 2,191
pounds butterfat.

21,104 quarts per year—enough to provide the morning delivery in a town of 21,000 population, says Louis W.
Jacquemin, Superintendent of Official
testing in Ohio and Coordinator of Records for Ohio Ag Services, Inc. To
say it another way, this 21,104 quarts of milk, based on 1972 per capita civilian
use, is enough to provide an all-dairy-products-milk-equivalent for 81 people
for one year, Jacquemin explains.

record of 44,019 pounds (for 365 days)

ROCK-BOUND — The cliffs, rock-bound caves and massive boulders of Nelson-Kennedy Ledges State Park provide a perfect setting for a day-long outing or a short visit to take in the scenery. The rock formations in this 167-acre park are perfect spots for peaceful family picnics. Nelson-Kennedy Ledges State Park is 35 miles southeast of Cleveland off Ohio 282.

Workman's Compensation to be required July 1

Fayette County Farm Bureau
President Wayne Hidy has stressed the need for all farmers to have Work-
1.

All farmers employing one worker
must be covered under the law by the July 1 date. "Farmers risk losing their farms if a worker is injured and they are not protected under the law," Hidy
said. "If not covered, the farmer is liable for medical expenses and a portion of the employee's lost pay. In cases of death or severe injury, the cost
could easily exceed $50,000," he said.

Double cropping hikes dairy feed production

Double cropping can boost feed
production for dairymen.

Double cropping consists of harvesting two crops in one year such as soybeans planted following harvest of a small grain crop, usually wheat or winter barley, say G.B. Triplett, Jr.
and R.W. Van Keuren, agronomists at
the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

However, with no-tillage making it possible to plant directly into sod, an early cutting of hay followed immediately by planting corn for silage is practical for feed production, research studies show.

The OARDC agronomists say conditions are ideal for rapid meadow
growth in early spring and the first cutting in late May is usually the highest yielding for the season. Corn
planted for grain production yields best
with an early May planting date —
before maximum meadow production
occurs. Thus, the producer who waits
for a meadow cutting before planting
corn sacrifices grain yield potential,
they say.

Plant yield of corn, as related to planting date, is highest about two weeks after the planting date for maximum grain production, the agronomists reveal. Thus, if corn is harvested for silage, early planting is not as critical as for maximum grain

Farm Bureau members can also take advantage of a special consulting service, at reduced rates, to advise
members on compensation. The Ohio
Farm Bureau has contracted with Compensation Consultants, Inc., of Columbus, to insure the members don't overpay, assist on claims, keep members informed of new regulations
and help keep rates as low as possible.

The service cost $5 the first year.
Thereafter, the fee is a minimum of $5
and a maximum of $15 depending on the size payroll.

Double cropping system to be most effective, the hay should be taken off, possibly as haylage, and the corn planted before the end of May. Of course if meadow is mostly grass,
nitrogen should have been applied in March or early April to increase production of the meadow crop.
Regardless of meadow composition,
adequate fertilizer must be used for satisfactory corn yields.

Preliminary feeding trial results
indicate that the silage from late planted corn is of excellent quality for dairy animals. Double cropping has not only produced more total feed per acre
than corn alone but also more total
protein per acre through the hay
harvest. This double cropping system
should help Ohio farmers produce more
high quality feed per acre.

Preserving hay with chemicals

Ohio weather is hazardous for making baled, sun-cured hay, particularly during the spring and early summer. Thus, the possibility that chemicals may be used to shorten
drying time is very attractive.

As with most new products, some highly exaggerated claims are made,
including that hay can be successfully
stored at moisture contents of 40 to 50 per cent. Trials conducted in 1973 at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center show that it is not possible to prevent heating of alfalfa
hay above 100 degrees F when the moisture in the bale is above 25 per cent.

To be effective, chemical preservatives should inhibit mold growth and prevent temperatures in the hay from exceeding 100 degrees F in order to minimize the loss of nutritive value,
especially protein, and maintain the digestibility of the crop. Varying rates
of commercial spray-on hay preservative have been tried. Rates of 2
pounds per ton — recommended rate —
up to 10 pounds per ton were studied.
The higher rate delayed the heating of
hay in storage at higher than 25 per cent moisture, but after several days
the chemicals appeared to lose their effectiveness and heating and molding
occurred. At 25 per cent moisture, the 2 pounds per ton appeared to be effective
in preventing heating of the crop.
Below 20 per cent moisture, the hay
crop did not heat in storage without preservatives.

Apple growers named to marketing group

Ohio Director of Agriculture Gene R.
Abercrombie has appointed three
apple growers to three-year terms
beginning today on the Ohio Apple
Marketing Program Operating Committee.

Two of the three orchardists are
reappointments.

Reappointments are Roland J.
L. Bachman, Carroll. Daniel E. Simmons, Rt. 1, Rogers, is newly appointed.

"These three men are active and dedicated to Ohio's apple industry. The talent and expertise they will contribute to the Committee during the next three years will immeasurably aid
efforts to unify growers and promote Ohio apples," Abercrombie said.

Chamber of Commerce drive nets 45 new members to date

Forty-five new members have been added to the rolls of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce since the 1974-75 membership drive was launched Tuesday morning, according to Jack Brennan, drive chairman.

Besides the 45 new members registered, the eight teams involved in the drive have also secured 333 renewal members to date to bring the overall total to 378 members.

Brennan indicated today that teams have until 1:30 p.m. Tuesday to complete their contacts. Brennan said that 100 renewal members and approximately 20 new member prospects have yet to be contacted.

Team and point standings to date are as follows:

Name 3 counties disaster areas

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan announced Friday that Lucas, Ottawa and Sandusky counties have been declared major disaster areas by President Nixon because of continued Lake Erie flooding this spring.

Under the designation, individuals, businesses and political subdivisions become eligible for benefits from the new Federal Disaster Relief Act.

These include low-interest loans, unemployment benefits and assistance in restoration of public property, educational facilities and park systems.

Disaster assistance requests to the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration will be coordinated by the Ohio Disaster Services Agency.

Tractor Rodeo slated Sunday at Fairground

The 1974 4-H Tractor Rodeo will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the Fayette County Fairground. The 35 members of the Fayette County 4-H Tractor Club are eligible to compete in the contest.

The tractor rodeo is an event planned to test the operating skills and safety knowledge 4-H Tractor Club members learned through the Tractor Club program. The rodeo will be scored in four parts on a penalty basis. First, each contestant will take a written examination testing his knowledge of tractor safety. Then, contestants are tested on their skills in moving a two-wheeled trailer through an obstacle course. Third, each contestant will tackle the four wheeled trailer backing event. Finally, contestants will examine a tractor in a trouble shooting exercise for maintenance problems.

Tractors and equipment will be provided by Fayette County farm equipment dealers. The event is being planned by Tractor Club advisors Joe Geesling, Frank Dill, John Hiser and Jim Garland and Lowell Woods, who will serve as judges for the event.

Awards for the winners are being provided by Case Power and Equipment Co., Krieger Equipment Inc., and Lowell Woods. The winners will represent Fayette County in the state contest at the Ohio State Fair.

The public is invited to view this interesting contest. In case of rain, the contest will be held on Sunday, June 9.

Hillsboro physician files $2.6 million damage suit

HILLSBORO — A $2.6 million slander and libel suit has been filed in Highland County Common Pleas Court by a Hillsboro physician, Dr. Barbara Lustgarten.

It is believed to be the largest damage suit ever filed in the Highland County court.

Named as defendants in the action are Dr. David S. Ayres, Dr. Paul W. Terrell and Mrs. John (Jean) Carson. Both physicians are general practitioners in the community while Mrs. Carson has been active in hospital auxiliary and health planning council affairs.

The plaintiff claims that until actions of the defendants as set forth in the suit, she had enjoyed a good name and reputation in practice of medicine.

SHE CHARGES specifically that the defendants "have conspired together and with others in Highland County since June 1, 1973, for the purpose of maliciously and outrageously slandering and libeling the plaintiff in her chosen profession as a physician and anesthesiologist for the purpose of injuring her good name and reputation and to curtail her economic success in the practice of her profession."

She also maintains that the defendants have stated publicly that the plaintiff came to Hillsboro "under false and fraudulent capacities as a physician and anesthesiologist."

The suit claims "they have said that her training is rotten, that her credentials are fake, that she lied to the hospital board, and have accused her of stealing."

The plaintiff also specifically charges that Dr. Ayres has maliciously and willfully slandered her by saying she was "guilty of unprofessional, cruel and unskillful treatment resulting in the death of at least one patient."

She also claims Dr. Ayres slandered her by stating that she has "solicited patients" and has accused her of conduct which would result in the death of many patients.

The plaintiff says these statements have been published both orally and in writing. She claims she has suffered a loss of income of $100,000 as a result, has been compelled to seek medical services, will suffer a future loss of earnings of $500,000.

She asks exemplary and punitive damages totaling $2 million.

Electric project funds readied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A check for $16.6 million was handed over to officials of Buckeye Power Inc., of Columbus, in ceremonies here Friday at the Rural Electrification Administration.

In addition, the REA announced approval of $34.5 million loan to the firm to help build a new generating unit at Brilliant, Ohio.

The entire project is expected to cost $227.5 million, with most of the financing to come from private lending sources.

The new electric generating unit, which will use coal as fuel, is to go into operation in October 1976.

KIRKPATRICK FUNERAL HOME

Dear friends,

There are a number of ways in which people will share the bereaved family's loss and express their love, respect, and grief. Some will come to both the visitation and the funeral service. Others will be at just one. Most who are at the funeral service will want to lend support to the family at the committal at graveside.

Respectfully,

Richard Kirkpatrick

The CIA's authority

Almost no one outside the Central Intelligence Agency knows much about what the Central Intelligence Agency is up to. This includes Congress, and most notably the American public in whose interests the CIA presumably operates. This is arguably essential in any intelligence operation — that it be secret. But a claim of absolute secrecy does not stand up well against the principle that in an open society all governmental powers, including those of secret intelligence services, should be clearly delineated and circumscribed. These reflections are prompted by word that officials are thinking of disclosing the top secret authority under which the CIA has operated since 1947. This authority is embodied in National Security Council Intelligence Directives which have successively expanded the agency's powers. Such disclosure, with due regard to security considerations, would be welcome. The public has the right to know much more than it has thus far been told about what the CIA does.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

For the want of dignity

It was, I suppose, inevitable: I was drawn to those tapes like iron filings to a magnet. Particularly when a friend sent me the big, blue book, published by the Government Printing Office, which is double-spaced and not printed in a type size requiring a microscope. Probably just about everything that can be said on the subject has by now been printed three times, so I am not going to get involved in Talmudic explorations or (to balance the ticket) Jesuitical distinctions. The seven possible meanings of what D. said to P. on March 17 will be left to my brethren with a bent for cryptanalysis; what profoundly disturbs me about the document as a whole is the degree to which those arch-defenders of the "Presidency" dragged the executive function through the muck.

For openers, the tone of the conversations is sickening. As has been noted here, before, I have never believed that the President of the United States was converted into a god upon assuming office. Neither John Kennedy nor Lyndon Johnson could be portrayed as a candidate for "The Lives of the Saints." Moreover, I am not shocked by the (expletives deleted), though I am a bit curious to learn if some sanctimonious editor removed "Gee Whiz!" — it somehow seems to belong there. What stunned me was the total absence of what the Romans called "gravitas"; that is, inherent dignity in the President of the United States.

The flavor of the discussions in the Oval Office reminded me of the way the owners of a used car agency would react to the news they had been caught turning back the mileage. I can attest from personal experience that one can argue with the President of the United States, even on occasion tell him (as I heard Joe Califano, Harry McPherson and George Christian, among others, do) that in your judgment he is dead wrong. But the dispute is on his terms. Lord knows, I am not famous for my deference to authority, but the thought of interrupting Lyndon Johnson in the middle of a sentence to say, "No, we can't do that," is mind-boggling. It assumes the President is a collectivity, a "we." It should hardly be necessary to point out that there is only one President.

To look at it from a different perspective, nobody ever elected John Roche tree warden — and John Ehrlichman and Bob Haldeman were in the same category. For them to sit around chatting as equals with the President, interrupting him in mid-sentence and literally, on occasion, ramming a decision down his throat is simply demeaning, not just to the President but to the American people who chose him to be chief executive.

In short, I don't object in principle to human vulgarity. I have heard a great deal of it in the army, in politics and, believe it or not, in the academic world. On occasions, I have regrettably been known to use (expletives deleted). What upsets me is constitutional vulgarity, which — to use a vivid instance — might be described as the difference between a President giving a drunken address at the Lincoln Memorial and the chief executive, say at Camp David, pleasantly and privately a bit buzzed. The atmosphere vividly conveyed by the tapes is one of constitutional vulgarity. Without making any substantive judgment on what Mr. Nixon knew before his March 21, 1973, session, with John W. Dean III, it is perfectly clear to anyone who has ever spent any time in politics that from that day onwards the boys in the backroom were trying to fix the ticket.

I do not enjoy saying this; I hate to see the government of the United States splashed with muck. I have tried to give President Nixon the benefit of the doubt: I thought he was too smart to play those kinds of games. But there it is — and, for the benefit of Republican zealots, let me add that it doesn't do one bit of good to shriek, "Look how Wilson stole the election of 1916," or denounce L.B.J. for cheating at dominoes. The people are not interested in past sins, but in current regeneration.

"ACCORDING TO MY FIGURES WE HAVE A DOLLAR SIXTY FIVE LEFT OVER. SOMEBODY DIDN'T GET PAID."

By TERESA C. PITTS
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Millions of dollars anticipated from the state lottery still have no place to go, state officials said Thursday.

Spokesmen for the state auditor and treasurer's offices indicated impatience with state lottery commissioners on choosing depositories for lottery funds, expected to begin rolling in August with the first ticket sales.

"What we need is a meeting of the minds," said Wayne Maloon, deputy state treasurer. Maloon said John Kirkland, the lottery's executive director, was expected in his office this week to discuss where, when and how the funds would be deposited.

Apparently the (lottery) director is assuming there's plenty of time between now and August to set something in motion," Maloon said.

"Whatever should be happening," he said, "it should be happening now."

A spokesman for Auditor Joseph Ferguson's office said a state examiner soon will be transferred to the Cleveland lottery headquarters for assignment fulltime to the commission.

The examiner probably will come from Akron University, the spokesman said.

Additionally, about six auditors will

be hired part-time to help with lottery audits, he said.

Ferguson said he met with commission chairman David Leahy last week, but that the depository system had not been discussed.

"We're going to discuss that too, later on," Ferguson said. "We've got to get the books set up right away because they have some money to pay salaries up there already."

The lottery was given $2 million by the legislature last year to fund students and pay consultant fees. The money has been held in the state treasury.

The plan most talked about involves designation of several regional banks, plus a central bank, Ferguson and Maloon said.

The plan, tentatively, calls for regional banks in Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Toledo, Dayton and Youngstown, said the auditor's spokesman.

Seven or eight banks so far have applied to be the central bank, he said. That bank would receive all the money from the other banks and would be paid either by a set fee or by being allowed to invest a portion of the deposits, Maloon said.

Banks probably would prefer the percentage method, he said.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Tell husband vacation should be fun for all

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I can't agree on what constitutes a vacation. Paul and I have four kids, ranging in ages from 10 to 16. Last summer a friend turned over his farm to us and we took the kids and spent three weeks there. Paul is a country boy at heart. He likes to get up at the crack of dawn and run the tractor and spend every evening rocking on the front porch, looking into space and listening to the crickets. Meanwhile, I do all the laundry, cooking and dishes. (This is a vacation?)

Paul wants to go to this farm again, and I say we should leave the kids at home and take a real vacation alone somewhere. My mother agreed to stay with our kids. What should I do? Take the credit cards and go to Reno?

CITY GIRL

DEAR CITY GIRL: To Reno with credit cards? What for? To gamble or file for a divorce? Why not compromise, and do what Paul wants to do for half the vacation and what you want to do for the second half?

DEAR ABBY: I'm not much of a letter writer, but I need some answers, so here goes:

The other day I got a questionnaire in the mail. It was a form to fill out. There were lots of questions about a friend of mine who apparently had applied for a job with a big company. Here are some of the questions:

Has ever been in trouble with the law?

Does drink? Moderately?

Excessively?

Does use drugs?

What do you know about general health?

Please name some of 's undesirable qualities.

Name some of 's good qualities. Abby, my friend must have given my name for a reference or I wouldn't have received this questionnaire, right?

I have known this person for about 15 years, but I can't honestly answer some of these questions. In fact, if I could, I wouldn't want to. I'm afraid if I don't fill out this form, my friend won't get the job.

How would you handle this?

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: You are under no obligation to answer the questionnaire. I would write a letter telling what I DO know about the applicant and no more.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WHO AM I?"

You are a 19-year-old high school dropout who never made a serious effort to stick with anything once the going got rough.

You didn't listen to your father because you thought advice from a "loser" wasn't worth anything.

You didn't graduate from high school because you were too lazy to make your grades, so you told yourself that school was a waste of time, that you had learned all there was to learn there, and you'd be better off in the business world.

Determined as you were to do "your own thing," you haven't done anything because you still don't know what "your own thing" is.

Right now you aren't anybody. But if you sincerely want to be somebody, do this: Go back to school. (Adult education-night classes are available for those who work days.) First, get your high school diploma, then learn a trade or develop a special skill, and work like a sonuvagun. You will then be "somebody," and you won't have to write to Dear Abby to find out who you are.

MRS. JOSEPH S. GREEN

Estes Chapel, Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Ky., was the setting Friday evening for the marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Miller, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Paul Miller Sr. of Sabina, and Joseph Sturm Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Green of Appalachia, Va.

The bride's father, the Rev. Mr. Miller, the groom's brother, the Rev. Allen Green of Royston, Ga., and the bride's brother, the Rev. Joseph Miller of Wilmore, Ky., performed the wedding ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white organza trimmed in Venice lace with long sheer sleeves accented with daisy appliques. The high waistline was accented with a chapel-length train. Her elbow-length three-tiered veil was of illusion and she carried a bouquet of white roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

Maid of honor Miss Evangeline Miller, sister of the bride, wore a floor-length gown of yellow dotted Swiss following the same style of the bride's gown, and trimmed in Venice lace. A six-inch ruffle at the hemline accented the small train at the back of the dress. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies and yellow roses.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Craig Carter of Columbus, cousin of the bride, Miss Darlene Neff of Ashville, and Miss Ginny Olds, of Sabina, friends of the bride, and Miss Teresa Miller of Columbus, niece of the bride, all wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor. Each carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Mr. Roy A. Green, father of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Sam Green and Eddie Green, brothers of the groom of Appalachia, Robert Miller Jr., Columbus, brother of the bride, and David Green, another brother of the groom of Virginia.

Hostesses for the reception held in the Cordelia Thomas Dining Room, Asbury Seminary, were Mrs. Joseph Miller of Wilmore, Ky., and Mrs. Robert Miller Jr. of Columbus, sisters-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Eddie Green of Virginia, and Mrs. Allen Green of Royston, Ga., sisters-in-law of the groom. A yellow, mint green and white color scheme prevailed in the decorations. Mrs. John Davis of Virginia, the groom's sister, presided at the guest book.

Mrs. Miller chose for her daughter's wedding a pink and beige floor-length gown trimmed in pink Venice lace. She wore a corsage of pink daisies and pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore an aqua blue floor-length gown trimmed in silver. She wore a corsage of yellow daisies and yellow roses.

The rehearsal dinner took place at the Springs Motel Restaurant in Lexington, Ky.

The bridegroom will be pastoring a United Methodist charge in Virginia after June 23.

BANANA OATMEAL PANCAKES

1 1/2 cups milk
1-3rd cup butter or margarine
1 1/2 cup quick-cooking oats, uncooked
1-3rd cup unsifted flour
1 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
2 eggs, separated
2 ripe bananas, peeled and diced.

In a 1-quart saucepan heat the milk and butter until butter melts and small bubbles appear around the edge.

Remove from heat and stir in the oatmeal; let stand until cool.

On paper, thoroughly stir together

the flour, baking powder, salt, sugar and cinnamon.

Whisk the egg yolks into the oatmeal mixture; add the flour mixture and stir just until blended.

Beat egg whites until stiff; fold, along with bananas, into oatmeal mixture.

Onto a lightly greased hot griddle, using moderate heat, drop batter by 1/4 cupfuls several inches apart; with a small metal spatula, spread each pancake until 3 to 4 inches in diameter; cook until bubbles appear and top is slightly dry — about 3 minutes; turn and brown other side.

Serve with soft butter or margarine and maple syrup or honey.

Makes about 16 pancakes — 4 servings.

Phillies fall to second with loss to Giants

By The Associated Press

Here come the Cincinnati Reds... and there go the Philadelphia Phillies.

Those loud footsteps behind the pace-setting Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West belong to the Reds, division champions in three of the last four years, who won their seventh consecutive game Friday night, downing Pittsburgh 7-5.

Meanwhile, in the East, a lovely May came to a dreary conclusion for the Phillies, who saw their stay at the top of the division end along with the month Friday night when they bowed to the San Francisco Giants 6-2.

In other National League games Friday, Houston rapped New York 7-1, St. Louis shut out San Diego 5-0 and Los Angeles defeated Chicago 8-3. Atlanta's game at Montreal was rained out.

The Reds are still a fat seven games behind the sizzling Dodgers in the West but Los Angeles also had that kind of

lead a year ago and Cincinnati wiped it out.

The Pirates were nursing a 5-3 lead into the seventh on a pair of homers by Bob Robertson but Johnny Bench's bases-loaded triple turned it around. "The balls were really carrying tonight," the Reds' slugger said. "I thought mine was a sacrifice fly but it carried to the fence. And with my lightning speed," he added with a grin, "I waltzed into third base standing up."

Philadelphia is also streaking, but in the wrong direction. The Phillies dropped their fifth in a row and slipped into second place in the East, one percentage point back of St. Louis.

Manager Danny Ozark thinks he knows what's wrong with his Phillies.

"It's a lack of confidence," said Ozark. "We're taking pitches we should hit. We've become less aggressive at bat. We're talking ourselves into a slump."

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — It was almost a replay of the fifth game of the National League playoffs in 1972. The bases were loaded, Dave Giusti was on the mound and John Bench came to the plate.

The crowd of 40,205 was on its feet when Johnny Bench tagged the one-and-one pitch to left. This time it didn't go over the wall, but Bench had a three-run triple to put the Reds ahead 6-5.

Dave Concepcion then singled home for the final run, giving Cincinnati a 7-5

victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and their seventh win in a row.

"People remembered the home run," said Bench. "They reacted when I went up there. It's the first time in Riverfront Stadium I've had to go against Giusti in a crucial situation since the 1972 playoffs."

Bench's home run tied the playoff game and the Reds went on to win.

"It's been a while since I've gotten an important hit off him," Bench said of Giusti. He's pitched me tough."

Bench said it was a hanging curve ball, "and I thought it was only a sacrifice fly, but it carried out to the fence." Bench said he hit it "almost one-handed. I've had a sore thumb lately."

Pittsburgh had carried a 5-3 lead into the seventh, paced by two home runs by Bob Robertson.

Robertson has had five home runs and driven in 12 runs in the last five games. "I can't explain it," he said. "I just seem to be making contact."

Jim Rooker, 2-4, gave up seven of the 11 walks allowed by Pittsburgh pitchers in the contest.

"You know walks hurt you," said Bench. "Rooker is a good pitcher. He just didn't have his control tonight. Our pitchers always pay for walks."

Dodgers 8, Cubs 3

Bill Russell, Rick Auerbach and Bill Buckner drilled three hits each and the Los Angeles Dodgers picked up four unearned runs to defeat Chicago.

Buckner also stole three bases and Mike Marshall, appearing in his 33rd game, picked up his eighth save for the Dodgers, leaders in the NL West. Los Angeles also committed four errors, leading to two unearned runs for the Cubs.

Astros 7, Mets 1

Houston stretched its winning streak to five games as Cesar Cedeño ripped four hits including his 10th homer and Doug Rader and Tommy Helms added three hits each against the Mets.

It was the fourth straight loss for stumbling New York, fifth in the East Division, five games off the pace.

Cards 5, Padres 0

Sonny Siebert tossed a five-hitter for his third shutout of the season and red-hot Reggie Smith blasted his 10th home run, helping the Cards past the Padres and into first place in the NL East.

The shutout extended Siebert's scoreless string to 24 innings.

Royals dampen Indians with 4-2 setback in rain

By The Associated Press

Fortunately for the Great Wallenda, he didn't walk across the top of Cleveland's Municipal Stadium until after the Royals-Indians game Friday night.

If the tightrope walker had decided on a practice run, say, during the Kansas City fourth inning, there might have been trouble.

A wire cable had been strung above the field for a typical death-defying Wallenda performance. And Vada Pinson, just trying to be helpful as rain pelted the players, fans and field, hit the wire with a fly ball.

"I did it to knock the rain off," Pinson joked after the Royals' 4-2 victory. "So he wouldn't slip, you know."

Although Pinson took the fluke in stride, the real damage was done by Amos Otis' two-run single and John Mayberry's 10th home run of the season, which gave the Royals a 3-2 lead. Jim Wohlford brought in the other run to lower Steve Kline's record to 3-8. John Lowenstein and Jack Brohamer drove in the Cleveland runs.

A's 5, Brewers 2

Joe Rudi's three-run home run was the highlight of a five-run Oakland fourth inning in the victory over Milwaukee.

Dave Hamilton and Rollie Fingers combined for a seven-hitter, permitting one run each. Milwaukee's Bob Ellis drove one run home with a single in the second inning and Don Money the other in the eighth.

Angel Mangual drove in another run for the A's. The other scored on a wild pitch.

Angels 5, Tigers 3

Ellie Rodriguez drove in four runs with two solo home runs and a double to carry California past Detroit.

Rodriguez hit the double in the second inning, broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning with his third home run of the season, and added insurance with a homer in the seventh to hand Mickey

Lolich his sixth loss against five victories.

Rangers 7, Orioles 6

Toby Harrah stroked three hits—including the tie-breaking single in seventh inning—and scored twice to pace the Texas triumph over Baltimore.

The Orioles knocked out Rangers ace Ferguson Jenkins with four runs in the first, but Harrah brought Texas back.

Rain cancels track event

Washington Court House Jaycees' Junior Champ Program, which was scheduled to begin at 8 a.m. this morning, has been rescheduled because of the inclement weather. The program will be held 8 a.m. next Saturday at Gardner Park on Circle Avenue.

All entrants must have a registration form with a parent's or guardian's signature. If the registration form should be lost, extra forms will be available at the gate, but the entrants must present a note of approval from a parent or guardian.

Golf rescheduled

Due to the wet weather on both Wednesday and Friday evenings of the past week, the men's golf leagues were postponed. The Wednesday Golf League will be played this Monday and the Friday Golf League will resume play on Friday.

Rankin leads tourney

BALTIMORE (AP) — Picking up where she left off last year, defending champion Judy Rankin lead the Baltimore Golf Championship with a two-under-par 71 at Pine Ridge.

Mrs. Rankin's game Friday was highlighted by a birdie-four at the 18th green, when she chipped in from behind the putting surface, 35 feet from the cup.

The birdie put veteran Kathy Whitworth and rookie Jerilyn Britz in a tie for second place at 72, with Carol

Mann, Mary Lou Crocker, Judy Meister and Beth Stone following at 73.

Mrs. Rankin came into the event backed by 4-3-2 finishes the last three weeks.

She began with a birdie-four on the opening hole, when she dropped a six-foot putt.

She came to within a foot for a birdie-four at the 12th, but gave it back at the next hole when she skied her tee shot and never recovered.

Fairborn driver injured in accident on U.S. 35-S

A Fairborn man was injured in an accident Friday afternoon and charged by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department with reckless operation. Sheriff's deputies also investigated two other accidents which occurred Friday.

William A. Sams Sr., 46, of Fairborn, was injured in an accident at 12:45 p.m. Friday, near the intersection of U.S. 35-S and Camp Grove Road.

Sams was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by Gerstner-Kinzer ambulance service and treated for injuries sustained to his right leg and chest. He was then released.

Sheriff's deputies investigating the mishap charged Sams with reckless operation and reported his truck severely damaged.

A young Fayette County man also had trouble negotiating a right curve Friday.

Sheriff's deputies reported moderate damage to Carter's auto and the guardrail, but no injury.

By The Associated Press
Cool temperatures are forecast to continue over the state this weekend, despite sunny skies.

High temperatures today and Sunday were forecast from the mid 60s along Lake Erie to the low 70s near the Ohio River.

A cold front extending early today from New York through Pennsylvania and West Virginia to central Tennessee is moving eastward, away from Ohio.

Meanwhile, a poorly-organized high, centered in Montana this morning, covers most of the central and northwestern United States.

Rain persisted along the Ohio River overnight and clouds continued over the remainder of the state in the wake of the cold front. Temperatures at dawn today ranged from the low 50s to mid 60s.

Mild Monday through Wednesday with a chance of showers about Wednesday. Highs in the upper 70s and low 80s. Lows in the 50s and low 60s.

Opening lead—queen of spades.

The chance to make excellent plays at the bridge table does not come to declarer often, and when it does, you cannot afford to throw it away as I did on this hand. It was played in a game between two teams-of-four, all excellent players from the Columbus area, with international match point scoring.

After taking the opening lead in dummy, the jack of hearts was led, holding the trick. The ten of hearts was continued and taken by East's ace as west discarded the five of diamonds.

Although a diamond lead at this point will set the contract one trick, East misinterpreted his partner's diamond discard and returned his higher club to South's ace. The king of clubs was cashed; East playing the seven. East also completed an echo when a spade was then led to the king.

Tuesday's winners at the Elks Lodge were Mrs. Grove Davis and Mrs. Charles Fabb first with 69, Mrs. Bradley Johnson and Mrs. Carl Crook second with 65, and Mr. Eber Coil and Mrs. Larry Coil third with 63. Par was 54.

Youth Activities

Hopeful News in Medicine:

Speaking of Your Health...

New Uses for Aspirin

The importance of aspirin as a beneficial drug has never been underestimated. Except for people who are prone to stomach ulcers and those who have some bleeding tendency, aspirin still remains one of the most frequently used drugs.

Now, researchers have released important new studies that suggest that aspirin may be significant in the prevention of coronary heart attacks and stroke.

This concept originated when it was found that patients treated with large doses of aspirin for rheumatoid arthritis seem to have a lower frequency of heart attacks. Two separate groups of scientific investigators, one from Wales and the other from Boston, recently released interesting statistics to substantiate this idea.

Although the reports are not entirely conclusive, there is sufficient interest to warrant extending the study. The project would involve a large segment of the population, to seek proof that aspirin may have a useful effect in the ultimate prevention of some types of heart attack.

Because aspirin is such a readily available drug, there may be a temptation for some people to go on a self-established regime of daily doses. This, of course, should not be done without the specific supervision of a doctor.

The warning to cook all pork thoroughly, until it is white, is occasionally carelessly overlooked.

The trichinella spiralis, responsible for trichinosis, still presents a sizeable threat to people who have eaten contaminated pork.

Previously, a very complicated, time-consuming test for trichinosis was the only one available.

Now, Dr. Dickson Despomier, of the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, and Dr. Miklos Muller of Rockefeller University in New York, have devised a brilliant test which can determine the presence of trichinosis within an hour.

The importance of this, of course, is that early treatment can be started to avoid complications of this disease. Of course, prevention of trichinosis by thorough cooking is even more important.

Legion spokesman defends policy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state commander of the American Legion says persons criticizing policies of Buckeye Girls State are speaking "out of emotion without knowing all of the facts."

David Cropper was responding to criticism of a policy against allowing handicapped girls to participate in the program.

"We have had and will continue to have participation by handicapped boys and girls who can meet the strenuous activities of Boys and Girls State," he said.

Cropper said the policy is aimed only at those who would require assistance to participate in the program. He said the policy is being blown out of proportion.

Man charged with possession of explosives

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Exploding grenades in a wooded area near here led police and U.S. Treasury agents Friday to an "arsenal" of grenades, ammunition, blasting caps and 25 pounds of TNT, authorities said.

A 45-year-old Army Reserve sergeant, Lester Bortmas of Youngstown, was arrested and charged with illegal possession of firearms, police said. He was released on $10,000 bond.

A visiting Youngstown policeman heard the grenades and alerted Austintown authorities, police said. Police said they found a 14-year-old youth with a sack of grenades, and he led them to Bortmas.

Police say the youth got the grenades from a shack in the woods.

At least four state agencies have decided to exclude themselves from the Girls State program this year.

Gov. John J. Gilligan said he will attend the week-long "Democracy in Action" program, but his wife, Katie, has written to the president of the Ohio American Legion Auxiliary to express "personal dismay at the continued discrimination on the part of Buckeye Girls State against handicapped young women."

The boycotts involve the auxiliary's policy of barring handicapped students "who cannot carry on the fast-paced program independently."

Neither Mrs. George Sallot, president of the Ohio auxiliary, nor Mrs. Lester Merritt, director of Girls' State, was available for comment Friday.

"As you may know, I have spent a great deal of time during the past several years traveling throughout Ohio to promote what I call 'child advocacy' — attempting to show the people of Ohio that many so-called

More high prices for oil feared

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil company officials warn that Americans could again be paying high prices for scarce fuel if nations controlling most of the world's oil exports decide to increase oil taxes.

A plan now under consideration by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) will raise prices at the gasoline pump if it is adopted, according to a major oil company official.

The executive also said the United States could again experience supply problems since the higher taxes could eliminate marginal oil operators.

handicapped youngsters are in fact capable of leading normal, productive lives if they are given the chance," Mrs. Gilligan said.

"Too many young people have been consigned to a life of dependency simply because those who could have helped them chose instead to treat them as helpless cripples rather than as intelligent, capable men and women who, with a minimum of help and understanding, could be ready to take their place in the so-called 'normal' society," Mrs. Gilligan wrote.

She urged the auxiliary to reconsider its policy so that the program will not be operating in a way "that should have long ago been rejected as archaic."

Robert Tenenbaum, Gilligan's press secretary, said the governor is opposed to the policy, but will participate because he "feels it would be unfair to penalize all the other participants who didn't have anything to do with making up that rule."

Officials of the departments of Economic and Community Development, Bureau of Employment Services, Rehabilitation and Correction and Taxation have said they will not participate this year.
